Description of programme "Horizon 2020 - Prizes"	Horizon Prizes are challenge prizes (also known as 'inducement' prizes) which offer a cash reward to whoever can most effectively meet a defined challenge. They act as an incentive for innovation. They prescribe the goal but not who the innovator should be or how the goal should be achieved.

Call	European Low-Cost Space Launch
Description of call "European Low-Cost Space Launch"	Applicants for this Horizon Prize should develop a European solution for launching satellites into Low-Earth-Orbit that is technologically non-dependent. This could enable dedicated low-cost launches with committed schedule and orbit. Proposals need to be innovative, implementable, commercially viable and affordable in development. Furthermore, a holistic approach is required that explores possibilities beyond existing solutions. The solution will support Europe's access to space and thereby offer advantages for European companies, SMEs, universities and research centres.
